THEORY OF POWER

- All hierarchical systems of government are dependent upon the obedience and cooperation of the governed and their social institutions.
- The governed have the ability to limit or retain their contributions and obedience to the system.
- 3. If the governed retain their contributions and obedience to the system in large enough numbers and for a long enough time, the system will have to negotiate or collapse.

SOURCES OF POWER

- 1. Authority: the right to command and direct; to be listened to; obeyed by others; it is similar to power but not the same.
- 2. Human Resources: the number of people who obey the system.
- 3. Knowledge and Skills.
- Cultural Factors: Psychological and ideological; obedience and/or submission.
- Material resources.
- 6. Sanctions: forcing obedience by means of punishments, imprisonments or executions.
